work should go on. We would like to ask your seven great organizations which are now carrying on their United War Work campaign to send us a few of their organizers, who could study our after-the-war problems and help us to solve them. Your relief work here is done in a professional way. We would like to learn your methods.

"Only try to send us people who understand the language. It was very largely because he studied our language and was so successful in it that your representative, Doctor Charles Edward Merriam, was able to make America so well understood in Italy, came in such direct contact with our people and was so highly beloved and appreciated."

Countess Maria was enthusiastic in her description of the service rendered by Italian women during the war, and chief among them the queen, who set an example of sacrifice and industry in all war work.

morning, caused quite a stir in the assembly.

The most important resolution adopted was one which suggested to Prisident Wilson that I woman delegate be appointed a member of the United States Peace Commission. A copy of this resolution was forwarded immediately to the President. In the discussion it was suggested the woman delegate must not forget that the commission was dealing with thieves and mu derers.

During the evening there was a musical programme and addresses by Cornelia Josephine Burr, Mrs. James K. Simmers and the poet Edwin Markham.

Mrs. Smith arrived before the session opened and took a seat in the front row on the left side of the platform. Mrs. Whitman, who arrived later, during an address by Beatrice Forbas Robertson Hale, occupied an

Mrs Whitman, who arrived later, during an address by Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, occupied an armehair on the platform, and at the right of the president. Mrs. George D. Hiewitt. Judging from the tone of speeches and enthusiasm when one of the delegates referred to Governor Whitman as "the greatest of war Governors," Republican sentiment ran high. Mrs. C. J. Reader; troasure, Mrs. Julius Potter; general federation secretary. Mrs. John Francis Yawger. The most prominent speaker at the afternoon session was William H. Moyer, warden of Sing Sing prison, who spoke on the pathetic side of prison life. Warden Moyer made a strong appeal to women to help insure proper remuneration for work done by prisoners, so that they may continue to support their families, who are too often left absolutely destitute.
